FULL BIOGRAPHY

Mike Williams delivers a prophetic, cutting-edge message, which will challenge the comfort and complacency of everyone who hears it, as he tries to move the church from religious understanding and activity to true kingdom spirituality.

In May 1995, Mike began traveling extensively as the road manager of Bishop Carlton Pearson of Higher Dimensions Ministries and founder of the world-acclaimed AZUSA Conference, later becoming the managing editor of his magazine, Dimensions Digest, and the producer and editor of Bishop Pearson's national television broadcast.

The Christian world subsequently opened up to Mike, eventually leading to producing and editing television programs and commercials for some of the most well-known ministries on the planet, such as Bishop T. D. Jakes, Bishop Noel Jones, Bishop George Bloomer, Bishop Paul S. Morton, Sr., and many others.

Mike continues to produce and edit television programming for a number of well-known ministries through his television production company, Aces High Studios, and is also the founder and president of Aces High Publishing, publishing books, ebooks, audiobooks and other projects for ministries, business people and others from around the world.

Mike ministers biblical and spiritual truth under a prophetic anointing in churches and conferences around the country, imparting a message to restore God's purpose for the Church — for the Church to understand who we are and why we are here.
